

BEN column - There's money in pole limas; cafe in the courthouse; lighted danger signs near curve - great idea!

Saturday, September 05, 2009

By BEN

jhummel@sjnewsco.com

Good morning!

- Happy Labor Day weekend!

If you're reading this indoors, stop right now and get outside.

It's gorgeous. -

Celebrating the art of the book is very much a part of Millville's annual Arts, Music & Antiques Festival.Ê

And there is no more fitting stage than the Arts District's own Bogart's Books & Coffee, located at 210 N. High St., at the heart of Glasstown.Ê

Area authors will be signing their books during the Festival, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.Ê

Live music will also be offered inside the store with its unmistakable purple-painted faade.

Authors included in the signing event are:

- ~ Dr. Leonard Vernon, author of "Jewish South Jersey.
- ~ Betty Higbee, "Around Fortescue.
- ~ Allen Hauss, "South Jersey Movie Houses.
- ~ W. Mae Kent, "Titanic: the Untold Story.
- ~ Ann Boyle, "Turn of the Sentry.
- ~ Reece Brett, "Stranger to Love.
- ~ Peggy Erhart, "Sweet Man Is Gone.
- ~ Kelly Varesio (former Millville High School graduate), "Insperatus.
- ~ Ms. Lippi, "Passions of a Poet.
- ~ Joseph Mangraviti, "Hooked on You.
- ~ Daniel-Gary Holderman, "Heritage of Terra: The Endeavor.
- ~ Adam W. McGinnis, "Eulogy for White America.
- ~ Michelle Andrews, "Child of Compromise.
- ~ Judi Brett, "Buck the Buckle-Up Dog.